Dr.Pooja Kherwa is an assistant professor in Maharaja Surajmal Institute of Technology, New Delhi. She received her M. Tech in information Technology from Guru Govind Singh Indraprastha University; Dwarka, New Delhi in 2010.She has completed her PhD from Guru Govind Singh Indraprastha University, Dwarka- New Delhi in 2022. Her research interest includes Topic Modeling, Sentiment Analysis, Machine Learning.A talented professional who has superb teaching skills developed as a result of over 15 years of extensive experience in teaching computer science-related subjects and concepts to engineering graduate students. She has extensive research experience in topic modeling and published more than 20 research article in various international journals/conferences and in book of international repute as book chapters. She is the most read researcher of the department as per research gate, and was most read researcher of the institution for more than 6 consecutive months in 2020.She is also the most read researcher of the department in Sept 2023 as per Research Gate report. She has also reviewed papers in various SCIE/ESCI/Web of science journals. She has got certification of Appreciation for supervising graduate students in Inter College B. Tech. Project competition and winning Best Project of Computer Science in GGSIPU 2014. She got the Research Excellence Award for publishing research in quality journal in 2022.She has excellent communication and rapport with students which makes learning easier for them and much more fun.